

Ryan M. Nord

Ryan Nord's practice focuses primarily on construction law, and he frequently represents general contractors, sureties, subcontractors, owners, architects, and engineers. His practice includes construction litigation, negotiation and drafting of contract documents, mechanic's and materialmen's lien claims, OSHA defense, Fair Housing and ADA claims, performance and payment bond claims, bid protests, professional liability claims.

Mr. Nord began his construction practice while working at the premier construction litigation firm in Texas after graduating from the University of Texas school of Law. Before becoming an attorney, Mr. Nord worked in real estate development, which gives him a unique perspective on construction law issues. Ryan Nord also handles a wide variety of commercial litigation matters.

Mr. Nord also maintains an active corporate law practice with an emphasis on private equity transactions and the travel industry.